be beneath their dignity, and that the emergency required that they should take the subject in charge and should appoint a new rules committee whose members should have a direct personal responsibility to a higher authority, and who should be instructed that if a decent playable game could not be devised the game should be stopped. It has been suggested as a counter proposition that the matter should be referred to the various athletic associations. The question of how to cook a steak might as well be referred to a cage of lions. be beneath their dignity, and that the emergency

Chancellor Speaks to Students-Interclass Matches Off.

Chancel or MacCracken spoke in the chapel at the New-York University yesterday in a manner that showed clearly his determination that Ohlo Field should never be the scene of another football batt e under the present rules. The Chancellor said: The whole body of New-York University mourns to-day he killi g by a football accident on Saturday of Harold Moore. We have dep sympathy with the father, who saw his tuagic death, with the family and with Union College, of which thyoung man was a chersiel member. We have placed our university flag at halfmast, and will suspend our college exercises at the hour of his funeral.

The working out of the problem before us requires the best athletic brains and the best administrative brains of our universities. The next step must be a conference of colleges resolved unon either the reform or the abolition of football. The corporation of New-York University has been called for day after to-morrow to hear a memorial from the faculty authorities on this matter. That meeting is likely to determine the athletic policy of the university.

Dr. Charles H. Snow, dean of the School of Applied Science of New-York University, was most emphatic in his condemnation of the game. He

I cannot associate football as now played with the high aims of a university. It is not a game at all, according to the standards recognized by many. It is doubtful whether the bull fight has cost more lives and suffering than football, sanctioned by American colleges, has cost within a similar period of time. The reasons against football are greater than those for it. Many students play football because they believe they must. Responsibility lies with the university, rather than with the students. I am in favor of abolishing the game, rather than of attempting to modify it. The risks are too great.

This statement by Dean Snow is regarded as highly important by the students, as forecasting the probable action of the faculty committee on the probable action of the faculty committee on athletics, which meets to-day at 11:30 o'clock. Chancellor MacCracken said yesterday that he was unprepared to make any statement as to President Eliot's refusal to call a conference until he had received President Eliot's answer.

J. S. Connell, '66, president of the student organization, yesterday ordered the abandonment of the usual interclass football game, which was to have been played to-day. A meeting of the student organization was held at noon. A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions of symfathy with the family of Moore, and expressing the grief.

Prof. Russell, of New-York University, Speaks to Presbyterian Ministers' Association.

Dr. Isaac Franklin Russell, professor of law in New-York University, delivered an address before the Presbyterian Ministers' Association, at the Mission Rooms, No. 156 5th-ave., yesterday morning. Dr. Russell's theme was "The Preacher as a Pleader." He said in part:

The waning power of the pulpit is one of the most lamentable signs of the times. The intellectual pre-eminence of the preacher has passed and gone. Harvard and Yale were once training schools for missionaries and divines. The vast majority of their graduates once took holy orders. But the pulpit no longer attracts the brightest minds, and heological seminaries swarm with intellectual and moral weaklings. Pauperized by charity, beneficiaries of the bounty of the pious of past ages, divinity students are taught from the start to live, not on the principle that the laborer is worthy of his hire, but by making friends of the mammon of unrighteousness.

Pulpit deliverances of our day often lack every element of real oratory; they are largely dreary monologue and complacent soliliquy. The speaker's wits, instead of being sharpened by adversity and defeat, are blunted by the adulation of women and his unvaried triumphs in his weekly duel with an imaginary foe. Preaching has become speciacular, as well as a spiritual ministration.

Subserviency of the clerary to the money power will not fully account for the hush in pulpit oratory. Our present-day divines are not deficient in the arts of finished elocution, but they have divined and the substance of eloquent expression. The enthusiasts who really believe that the heathen are damned, that the millenium will dawn in two or three years if the Gospel can only be preached in all lands, that the man Jesus will certainly come in our day to reign in worldly dominion at Jerusalem—these add works to their faith and are persuaded by the preacher to sell all and lay it on the altar. It washomely language of a country deacon, speaking to a parson who had prayed long and loudly for power:

"What you want, doctor, isn't power; it's ideas."

And when the clerary have ideas and grand ideas, they deliver noble orations, ranking with the finished work of the greatest masters of expression.

YALE BELIEVES IN CAMP.

MAY END GAME AT N. Y. U. Does Not Think Good Would Come from His Retirement.

New-Haven, Conn., Nov. 27 (Special).-Discussion is widespread at Yale to-day over the report that a movement is on foot either to abolish football or tame the game so that it will be devoid of its present tactics. While no responsible authority at Yale to-day would talk for publication on the matter, there seems to be a well defined feeling among Yale athletic leaders. This feeling, which has been evident for some time, is that with a few drastic changes in the rules of the game football is well enough as TIN PLATE MILLS RESUME WORK.

Pittsburg, Nov. 27.-The Monongahelia Works, of of the same company will also begin operations shortly. The American company now has 75 per cent of its tinplate and 80 per cent of its sheet mills running. Compared with a year ago, this is 5 per cent more tinplate and 10 per cent more sheet mills.

SOUTHERN R. R. TO BUY SHIPYARD.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 27.-The Southern Railway has made an offer, acceptable to the bondholders' committee, for the Trigg Shipyard property here, embracing all of the real estate of the shipbulld-ing company except the dock. The offer, which has been virtually accepted, provides for the transfer of the lands of the Trigg shipyard, embracing about thirty acres. The railroad company, it is understood, is to erect there a large freight depot and several warehouses.

SEE SEVEN WATERSPOUTS AT ONCE.

Seven large waterspouts were the unusual sight observed by the four passengers and the ship's company of the Hamburg-American's Atlas Line service steamer Alleghany, which arrived here last night. The Alleghany came from Port Limon and Fortune Island, Bahamas. Captain Bode reports that when the steamer was three days out from Fortune Island the water-spouts were seen. At the time, the vessel was some three hundred miles south of New-York, about off Cape Hatteras.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT, FOR the Western District of Kentucky. P. C. CALHOUN and GEORGE OPDYKE. Trustees, Complainants, vs. ST. LOUIS & SOUTHEASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY, CONSOLIDATED. Defendants. NOTICE.—In the above styled cause, more than twenty-five years ago, a payment of ten and 15-100 dollars was ordered and adjudged to be made out of funds then in Court upon each one thousand dollar bond issued by the above named defendant, and such payment was made upon most of such bonds, but upon some of them it has not been made, and the sum of three thousand, four hundred and fourteen and 75-100 dollars remains in the registry of the Court for that purpose. The undersigned has been appointed Trustee in the cause, and hereby gives notice that the said Court has entered orders that he shall give notice by advertisement once in each week for six consecutive weeks in the New York Tribune and in the Louisville Courfer-Journal, that such fund is in the registry of the Court and that the parties entitled thereto he directed and required to present their claims thereto, and that if same shall not be presented within a period of thirty days from and after such publication of such notice, then the holders of the same shall be barred from any further assertion of such claims, and the Court will make such other and further orders as to the disposition of such claims, and the Court will make such other and further orders as to the disposition of such claims, and may appear just and proper in the premises. Such claims shall be filed with the Clerk of the said court in Louis-ville, Kentucky. November the 20th, 1905.
